For several thousand years people interested in spiritual matters, religion, occultism, or to use one of the currently popular names "Parapsychology" have been hearing about, reading about, and in some instances seeking to experience the situations that have led to beliefs, teachings, or faith in "life after death". Sometimes the experiences leading to such beliefs and teachings are called "out of body experiences". Sometimes they are called "astral tripping". Sometimes they are called "reincarnation". Sometimes "resurrection of the dead". Sometimes "going to Paradise or Purgation after one dies" or after a "judgment".

naturally "goes off". But to "tune into the same program again", you can just turn on another radio or television set, tune it to the same program or "wave shape", and you continue with the same program. Conquering death, or "achieving eternal life" (as occultists or religion talk about, and parapsychology currently trying to find out whether such ideas have any validity), as a parable or very simple story is probably that simple: -- you just produce another human body on purpose to "tune into the same program" or "have shape" as the body of the person who has died, and the new body feels it is the person who died alive again who has "conquered death".

It has almost always been the case that following in the wake of groups of people coming to believe in such ideas, and thus becoming another faith, sect, or religion, there have been continuing accounts of "visions" and "miracles" usually involving seeming reappearances of the leader or central figures in the faith involved. Such events produce the effect in most instances of reinforcing the faith and belief of the members of such a group, and adding to the symbolic body of legend and in many cases seeming evidence to support the life after death ideas of "occultism", "reincarnation", and "parapsychology".

Specifically "how" to do this as a very simple procedure may consist of little more than working soul shape analysis backward. Or in other words, instead of making a statement of the shape of the soul of someone who is now alive, (who became such a person by their mother and father producing their body), you look in the area or "window" of reincarnation or resurrection of the dead possibilities for currently possible soul shapes, (volunteers and out of kind from available possibilities, (volunteers and cases available, see couples choosing to have a child in a certain way elsewhere on this page), which man and which woman, who if they purposefully conceived (start) a human body at a particular time, (carefully selected intercourse time), will have about an 85% or more probability of producing an offspring a new "radio or television set" that a previous person who has "died" can regain "life" in by tuning into the same program, intelligence, or memory of experiences as the person selected to be "resurrected from the dead" or the "conquered death".

Until just recently, (within less than the last 100 years), there has been virtually nothing of a material or reliably provable and repeatable nature by any researcher instead of only a very few "special", "sensitive" or "elect" people upon which to base, explain, or prove the validity of such beliefs. However, with the discovery of and now universal wide use of radar, radio, and television, a body of provable knowledge and reliably repeatable phenomena has come into being which may provide the way to unlock perhaps the most systematic secret of occultism, religion, or parapsychology: -- human knowledge of how to "conquer death" or "achieve eternal life in Paradise". In as reliable a manner for anyone as "communicating with someone else at a distance" (by telepathy) or "seeing someone appear before the whole earth with (or in the) clouds" (by means of television).

With continually increasing human knowledge about radio and television broadcast and reception in particular, and wave phenomena in general, combined with thousands of years of records and analysis of human soul shapes now brought up-to-date with modern electronics knowledge, it is beginning to appear more and more that a human body and human intelligence is a wave resonating device and condition, and in particular in respect to waves that have a period of repetition between 24 hours and 28 1/2 days. 24 hours to 28 1/2 days may be the principal portion of the "electro-magnetic" or "cycle frequency" spectrum on which human intelligence broadcasts and receives, and may also turn out to be a substantial portion of the physical location of any individual person's "memory of experiences", "personality" or "what survives death". Thus returning into such a condition or waves that a person produces as one lives, makes "life after death" a valid idea and now acceptably possible.

This piece of paper is an effort to try to obtain volunteers to demonstrate how to do it, (conquer death, nullify the teachings, faith, or beliefs by believers in occultism, religion, or parapsychology about conquering death).

As for explaining "visions", "apparitions", "seeing ghosts", "out of body experiences", seeing the leading people in one's idealism or religion as "visions", "miracles" or "returned", -- it appears that the wave shapes a person creates and broadcasts as one lives in addition to being one's own "personality", "soul", or "memory of experiences" that is returned into and produces the condition of "oneness" or "one's memory of experiences" as well as the mechanism whereby conquering death can be achieved. -- such waves are tangible essences or shapes (like waves in an ocean combining to produce additional waves, and at least as tangible as what one's radio or television receiver tunes into, or what physicists for as such as thousands of years in the traveling of light from stars), that is struggling with the shapes broadcast by all other human beings and the rest of being produced by all other independent entities, waves, or "shapes" in the condition in which all of this is taking place, (whatever transmits light waves, etc.), that can trigger the seeing and hearing mechanisms in a human being.

Those who examine what is described in the book and decide they are willing to go further with this matter will be asked to see if they can engage in human projection, (or in other words married couples who have children), in such a way that they produce a human body with as nearly as possible the same soul shape as someone else who is selected to be "resurrected on purpose", or "resurrected from the dead".

A very simple illustration of how this works is a television picture vibrating at the same rate as the turning of the propellers of an airplane flying overhead, or a television picture going out of focus as someone comes into a leaves a room or moves their hand toward it and then away from it extremely but not touching the antenna. The same kind of "struggling", "influencing", or "changing" can happen to the much more sensitive "television sets" or "wave resonating devices" created by "God" or "nature" that are individual human beings. Or using an older word, one form of "astrology" -- This may be what energy as "God" from this era, Nov. 2017,
